

DIAMANT

Module

- Intervention

Purpose

- Strengthen the resilience of Muslim youngsters against extremism
- Increase the confidence of Muslim youngsters
- Contributing to a positive identity of Muslim youngsters

Description

DIAMANT is a training provided by certified trainers with an educational background to youngsters with a Muslim background that are vulnerable to radicalization or delinquency. The training aims to increase the confidence of youngsters, to build a positive identity and make youngsters more resilient against extremism and criminality. The trainings are given to a group of youngsters. The youngsters receive individual coaching on the side. The training consist of three components. The first component focuses on developing a positive identity and accepting people that have other beliefs than the youngster. The second component focuses on increasing the ability of the youngster to think and make decisions independently. The third component focuses on the ability to solve conflicts and deal with negative emotions and feelings of being treated unjust. The trainers make use of multiple methods, such a role play and counter-narratives. The training is completed by organizing a group activity in which the participants bring their developed skills into practice. They for instance give a presentation to an audience or organize a group discussion with representatives from the municipality.

Example of an assignments:

- Name 5 reasons why you are proud to be a citizen of (name country)?
- What are your top three values?
- What words do you associate with freedom and happiness?

Source / Literature

<http://www.sipi.nl/>

CC - Attribution-NonCommercial-ShareAlike
<http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/3.0/>

DIAMANT. Retrieved %s, from %s Thu January 22, 2026 from
<https://toolbox.ycare.eu/courses/YCARE183/>

<https://www.ycare.eu>

